A Settled Case.

A case was recently decided in Canadian court which establishes an important point as to the rights of church worshippers. The defendant was a gentleman who rented a pew in a church, and was accustomed to sleep during the sermon, and worse than that says the Chicago Tribune, to snore, The snoring was declared a nuisance by the brethren, and they sought to comfused to do so, and took his stand upon the fundamental position that he paid for his pew, that it was his own, and that he could do what he pleased with it. The brethren thereupon brought suit against him, charging him with maintaining a nuisance. The court a sleeping-car; the person who hires it can sleep or stay awake, and can snore or not, as seemeth good unto him. Furthermore, as snoring is not an act of volition, but is incidental to the relaxation of certain muscles, there is no malice or premeditated malevolence in it; consequently the snorer is not a church." The snorer has returned to his place, and the brethren now threaten that at the expiration of the time for which he has hired the pew it shall not he relet to him. In enswer the hold snorer says he will apply for a mandamus compelling the church to rent him the The case is an appravating but it would seem as if some means night be devised that would make it so ively for the snorer that he would take himself and his trumpet elsewhere.

"On my last trip to the States," said Mr. Arthur Fisher of this paper, "I caught a very bad cold which settled into a severe case of rheumatism. I did not know what to do for it, so I resolved to purchase St. Jacobs Oil for trial. Happy thought. I began applying the Oil, and in two weeks was as well ever."-Toronto (Canada) Globe.
